Reference to our telephone conversation, I hereby attach the list of books selected from the catalog. I would like these books speedily ordered and delivered at the earliest possible time. If the books can be delivered before the 20th of July, Oslo would be a choice. If later than July 20 another location of delivery in another country will be told you.

Because of the size of the order you have promised me a reduction of 20% on the total cost. Since the purchaser is not a well-to-do person, but willing to help a small country in Africa fighting for its independence against a superpower, a further reduction would be considered as a contribution from your side. I should also mention the possibility for more orders when new catalogs are issued.

Best regards,
